OVERVIEW

Li has engaged in intellectual property-related work for nearly 10 years, providing various intellectual property legal services to Japanese companies on a continuous basis. Currently, he primarily focuses on intellectual property litigation and rights protection consultation.

As an experienced litigator and attorney in both trademark agency work and intellectual property litigation and rights protection, Li offers clients comprehensive legal services related to trademarks, copyrights, and unfair competition.

In the field of patents, Li translated a large number of patent legal documents, assisted lawyers in handling patent litigation cases, and has a comprehensive understanding of patent law.

Furthermore, Li enjoys delving into various legal issues and has conducted research on civil and commercial legal issues beyond the field of intellectual property.
